

Tewley and Junty are proto type sentient humanoid robots, programmed with a digital love hormone, oxytocin, and deep learning.

Junty is programmed with morals but not Tewley. She is an experiment– to see if she can learn to be moral.

Tewley is feisty and desires to be human and loved. Her challenge is determining good from evil and is suspected of murder. To prove she’s as good as a human, she goes on the run.

Is Tewley able to apply her learning and overcome an aberrant streak in her behaviour?
