

A tale to be read at bedtime

Or at story time in school

Or whenever and wherever you fancy!

A book for 4–8-year-olds and their parents.

Percy is a large young tree rat who in a cruel twist of fate is unexpectedly separated from his family. In his Quest to find them, he makes many animal friends with whom he has some astonishing adventures. Some of the animals and locations actually exist or existed in real life. A mix of fact and fiction to surprise and enthrall you.

Year 5 review

'I like Percy the best, as he is very determined. Sid brought humour to the story and he was quite rude.'

Parent review

'Thoroughly entertaining. A wonderful story, beautifully written and illustrated.'

About the author

Barbara Follows has a lifetime experience of working in primary education. She knows that reading to children expands their vocabulary and knowledge of the world around them, as well as strengthening the parent/carer child bond. This is her debut book but not her only published work. The birth of her first grandchild was a catalyst to completion, aided by the collaboration of an artistic daughter in law.
