

Duke's Heartbreak & other stories

Beatrice Holloway

The stories in this book are intended for those on the threshold of adulthood where troubles are thought to be insurmountable.

Loyalty and lack of confidence are dealt with along with the mixed feelings of a first love in an understanding manner. Peer pressure and bullying are tackled with empathy and perhaps, more importantly, one's identity and place in an exciting world of opportunities.

About the author

Beatrice Holloway is a playwright and author.

A retired teacher, between 2015 and 2022, Beatrice was the Children's Storyteller for Hillingdon Narrowboats Association which led her to write about canal life.

The London Borough of Hillingdon library service published two of her children's stories and awarded her with a Certificate of merit – 'In recognition of an outstanding contribution to the Arts'. Beatrice was also awarded a Lottery Grant to write a commissioned historical play: Commoner to Coronet.
